

Eckardt, Stephanie “The Women Artists Stealing the Spotlight at Frieze New York 2017”, Wmagazine, May 2, 2017

Frieze New York 2017 kicks off later this week, meaning swarms of artists, dealers, collectors, street style stars, and the generally curious will soon be descending on Randall's Island (and among them, an alleged smattering of Leonardo DiCaprios). There, they will find a series of significant showings of women artists well worth the trek, from new works by Lorna Simpson to an all-pink booth featuring Jenny Holzer and Louise Bourgeois in honor of the Women's March. Preview the best of the lot before the fair opens May 5, here.

Kiki Kogelnik at Simone Subal Gallery

An Austrian-American painter, printmaker, and sculptor that infused Pop art with feminism circa the Women's Liberation Movement, the late artist Kiki Kogelnik continues to make her mark with a solo presentation at Simone Subal Gallery of her paintings and sculptures from the '60s and '70s.

Kiki Kogelnik, Express, 1972.

Courtesy of © 1972 Kiki Kogelnik Foundation. All Rights Reserved. Courtesy Simone Subal Gallery